Truncation Report Remarks:

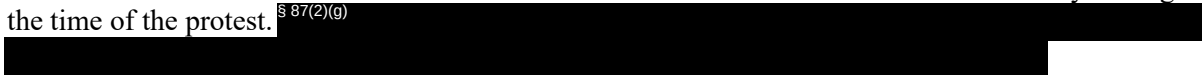

On April 16, 2024, § 87(2)(b) and § 87(2)(b) identified only by the initials § 87(2)(b) filed complaints regarding this incident with the CCRB via the website on behalf of an unidentified individual. Neither individual provided their contact information. Searches of the CTS, BADS and CLEAR databases returned no contact information for either of them. § 87(2)(g)

This incident took place during a pro-Palestine protest on April 15, 2024. § 87(2)(b) provided a brief clip of cell phone footage with his initial complaint. He did not indicate who recorded it or provide the original source of the video. The footage shows a uniformed officer grabbing a female protester by the back of their shirt. The camera then falls to the ground. It does not show what happens next. § 87(2)(b) did not identify the protester. Review of TARU and BWC footage recorded during the protest found two videos in which this protester is visible. None of the videos, including the cell phone footage, show what happened before the officer grabbed the protester, what subsequent contact the officer might have made with the protester, or what happened to the protester afterwards. The videos show that the interaction occurred next to the Manhattan side of the Brooklyn Bridge.

The investigation was unable to identify or contact the civilian depicted in the video footage. Neither the initial complaints nor the video footage indicates whether the protester was arrested or issued a summons during this incident. Review of arrest records found that there were three males who were arrested on the Brooklyn Bridge during the protest but no females. Reviews of the summons indexes found that there were 52 individuals who were issued summonses on or around the Brooklyn Bridge at the time of the protest. § 87(2)(g)

A large black rectangular redaction box covering several lines of text.

The investigation was unable to contact the complainants or identify the victim to obtain sworn statements regarding the incident. The video footage obtained from the incident does not provide a clear account of the interaction, including how it started, what force might have been used against the victim, or what happened to the victim as a result. It is therefore recommended that this complaint be closed as victim unidentified.
